A flexible, personalized experience
The program focuses on empowering participants to become globally-oriented responsible business leaders. Participants will choose electives across courses on sustainability, digital leadership, and innovation. These elective clusters will be combined with career learning labs on luxury, finance, consulting and product management. These are dedicated workshops and learning expeditions led by experienced professionals, designed to develop specialized skill sets and cutting-edge industry knowledge. They offer valuable insights, skill-building, and networking opportunities, building on ESSEC's expertise, alumni network, and savoir-faire. Participants customize their experience to achieve their personal career goals. After graduation, career opportunities could include roles like luxury e-retail manager, digital product manager, and ESG consultant.

Learning by doing

ESSEC's philosophy is “Learning by doing”, and the program's curriculum reflects that. In addition to their classes, participants will also complete either an internship, a global field project or a venture project. Participants will take part in leadership development projects throughout the year to enhance their leadership skills in their target sector.

Dr. David Sluss, the program's academic director and an expert in leadership, adds, “The ESSEC Global MBA has been redesigned to prepare participants to become global leaders. We have expanded our focus to provide a globally integrated journey that helps you become an innovative, responsible, and digital- savvy leader prepared to succeed in high-return & high-impact careers. ...No matter your aspirations, our ESSEC Global MBA has a career-accelerating experience waiting for you.”

The updated ESSEC Global MBA offers a boutique program with a small cohort so that participants get the most of their experience.
